

INVITATION – ABIAL LunchDATE: Friday, November 4, 2016VENUE: TBCTIME: 12:00 – 14:00

We are delighted that

Hilary Lindsay, President of the Institute of Chartered Accountants in England and Wales visits us for a lunch discussion on

“the impact of Brexit”.

Hilary would welcome your views to feed into UK government and the CCAB bodies' work as the UK government and EU move towards negotiations on the UK leaving the EU. What are your priorities to raise with the UK government? What are the potential impact/outcomes for British professional accountants living and working in Europe and for non-British professional accountants working with the UK in future? And how can UK government and UK businesses be encouraged that Europe is a market for trade?

Hilary Lindsay is the President of ICAEW for 2016-17.

In that role she chairs its board and has been a member of its Council for over a decade. As President she also is Patron of CABA, the ICAEW wellbeing arm, and chair of the CCAB Board. In 2011-12 she was President of AAT (the Association of Accounting Technicians). Hilary is passionate about personal development and in 2013 completed doctoral research with The Open University into the roles of continuing professional development and lifelong learning in the accountancy profession. She has since published academic articles and a book in this area. She is an award-winning lecturer in finance and management for their Business School and a researcher and supervisor on the OU Doctorate in Education programme. Hilary is chair of Axiom Housing Association and recently completed a nine year term as a trustee of CABA. She has been involved with Northampton Samaritans for twenty years and has run several marathons to raise funds for them.

She is the first academic and second woman to become President of ICAEW. Hilary lives in Northampton with her husband Colin. Their joint interests include their allotment, art appreciation and walking.
